

SCHOOL OF GLOBAL MEDIA STUDIES

School of Global Media Studies (SGMS) is a tech-based innovative program that integrates three courses in one double block for one semester. Increased access to technology gives students more opportunities to discover, innovate and develop skills that are critical in our ever-evolving society. In this program, students collaborate to connect language and literature with technology in project-based tasks that involve interactive computer and web-based programs and community connections. The SGMS program at Holy Rosary has provided incredible opportunities for our students to broadcast their work beyond the classroom. Students' creations have been featured on Newcap TV and their photography and video footage has been used by the City of Lloydminster for promotional materials.

COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

Students in this program regularly learn from community experts in various fields of work, including Newcap News, Meridian Source, Red Bicycle Communications, Narra Studios and Toastmasters Club.

GLOBAL CONNECTIONS

Students in this program connect with peers and experts from around the world, as well as within our own country, using Skype, Flipgrid and various approved social media outlets.

ADDITIONAL LEARNING AND LEADERSHIP

This program includes hands-on learning experiences and community-based excursions to enhance the classroom learning. Students also develop leadership skills by working with elementary level students within LCSD.
